Practitioner's Training
Troy E. Sammons, hereafter referred to as Acupuncturist, has a Master's Degree in Acupuncture and Oriental Medicine from the Oregon College of Oriental Medicine (OCOM). Training at OCOM consisted of 4 academic years encompassing the prescription and application of acupuncture techniques, adjunctive therapies and herbal therapies as defined by Traditional Oriental Medical concepts. The Acupuncturist has advanced studies in Acupuncture and Herbal medicine from the Nanjing University of Traditional Chinese Medicine (NUTCM), located in Nanjing, China, and also has advanced training in administering non-steroidal injection therapy.

Treatment Sessions
Treatments may include acupuncture, moxibustion (heat), electro-acupuncture, cupping (suction), tui'na (soft tissue therapy), acupressure, non-steroidal injection therapy, or a variety of other techniques. The initial visit requires approximately 30 minutes and consists of an orientation and a thorough patient intake. Follow-up treatments last approximately 30 minutes and include a complete Oriental Medicine treatment.
